The following remarks were heard on a business street in Bangor yesterday. Said A to B:

They've got things down to hard pan now,
You'd scarce believe your eyes,
The H. O. Staples Clothing Co.
Are in for enterprise
Fifteen dollar Ulsters, going at Nine,
Scotch Suits at less than ten
When I bought mine I paid sixteen,
Big drop twixt now and then!
Three Dollar Pants for half that sum,
Cost prices for Underwear.
I'm bound for Staples' Store, By Gum!
I'll buy another pair---And he did it.

Yes, Gentlemen, the above remarks are strictly true. Convince yourself by giving us a call.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Changes in the New Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec 11 The following are among the more important changes made in the tariff bill a revised copy of which was laid before the Ways and Means committee this morning The schedule of cotton yarns is raised on an average of about 5 per cent A new class is created not exceeding 12 cents per pound in value on which the rate is 20 per cent Yarns valued at over 12 and not exceeding 20 cents per pound, are put at 25 per cent, up to 30 cents per pound, 30 per cent up to 40 cents a pound, 35 per cent, over 40 cents per pound 40 per cent All laces and embroideries of flax, jute, cotton and other vegetable fibres are raised from 35 to 40 per cent

Saxony wilton and velvet carpets are advanced from 30 to 35 per cent velvet and tapestry carpets are advanced 2 and 30 per cent and the same advance on tapestry, Brussels triple ingrain and Venetian carpets An advance is made in wool Dutch carpets from 30 to 35 per cent and in druggets and backings and felt carpeting A like advance is made in other carpets not specially provided

Tin plate is changed from ad valorem duty of forty per cent to a specific duty of one and one fifth cents per pound and the reduction is not to take effect until October next The duties are restored on planed lumber at a rate of 50 cents per 1 000 feet for each side planed, one dollar for plained tongued and grooved on one side and $1 00 when planed tongued and grooved on both sides A limited value of wearing apparel which can be brought in free is reduced from $5 00 to $2 50 The date on which the tariff bill goes into effect has been changed from March to June 1st

Discussion of Meeting the Deficiency

The Ways and Means Committee was in session an hour this morning The session was devoted mainly to the consideration of the resolution offered by Mr Reed, of Maine The resolution in substance was that inasmuch as a deficiency of seventy two million dollars is shown by the committee's calculations it is desirable to inform the committee in what way it is to be met. Chairman Wilson replied speaking for the Democratic majority, that it should be met by internal revenue taxation, but the internal revenue schedules were not completed Some discussion ensued as to the advisability of considering the bill in sections, not as a whole The resolution was defeated by a strict party vote

Some Proposed Postal Changes

In the House to-day Mr Dockery, chairman of the joint committee to investigate the government departments introduced a bill making certain changes in the matter of postal notes, etc The bill was referred to a joint commission Among the changes made by the proposed bill is the abolishment of postal notes It provides a new schedule of fees for money orders, and authorizes the postmaster general to designate certain money order offices to issue orders for sums not to exceed $5

These offices are to take the place of the postal note offices now existing The schedule of fees for money orders is materially reduced, being placed on a par with the fees of express companies It also provides for the turning over to the general treasury on the first of July next of all unpaid money orders and postal notes more than twelve months old This fund is estimated to amount to about $3 000,000 It can be paid out by the warrant of the Postmaster General

MIDNIGHT TRAIN ROBBERS

Board a Train and Secure a Large Amount of Money and Other Valuables from the Passengers

AUSTIN, Texas Dec 11 About mid night last night, as the north bound International and Great Northern express train was passing Duval, a small station seven miles north of here it was side tracked and robbed by a gang of seven men When the train was stopped the headlight was shot out, and the brakeman who came running up from the rear end of the train had his lantern shot out of his hand In the meantime a fusillade was kept up by the robbers so that no one dared venture out of the train The express car was the first object of the attack, the robbers securing a package containing $600 The passenger coach was next attacked and while a robber at each door kept the passengers covered, another went through the car

Taking Everything He Could Get

He had a large sack hanging over his shoulders, into which he dumped watches, jewelry and money As he entered the car he laid the express package down on a seat and before he had finished the passenger coaches the uproar became so great he jumped off the other end of the train without coming back for the package or molesting the passengers in the sleeper at the rear of the train The fireman was the only passenger injured, he receiving a flesh wound in the arm The amount taken from the passengers is very large, though the exact amount is not known Officers left here this morning for the scene of the robbery

MARINE DISASTERS.

THE ABSORBING TOPIC.

Saturday's Outrage in the Chamber of Deputies

Scant Consideration Should be Allowed Anarchist Murderers.

PARIS Dec 11 The outrage in the Chamber of Deputies Saturday is about the only topic of conversation in public resorts of this city to day It is the general opinion that the time has arrived when the government must put aside all maudlin sentiment and treat these anarchists as murderers with scant consideration, and that this will be done scarcely any one doubts It is believed that anarchists and all their sympathizers should be hunted to earth and punishment fitted to their dastardly crimes meted out to them Now that Auguste Vaillant, the bomb thrower, has fallen into the hands of the police, after doing all the evil he possibly could he is not lacking defenders or papers that will publish the secrets of his sympathizers A socialist minded Parisian has written a letter to the Temps defending Vaillant and that paper publishes it

The Autorite and Libre Parole ascribe Saturday's outrage to republican anarchistic teachings The Petit de Paris declares the socialists are answerable for the outrage The Journal Des Debats blames the radicals for bringing about defeat of the former bill aimed at the anarchists

To say that the popular feeling against the anarchists is extremely bitter, is to put it very mildly and the popular demand for sternly repressive measures is certain to force the government to adopt far more stringent precautions than any that have yet marked the counter revolution against lawlessness

DUTY ON SHIRTS

A Large Petition Signed Protesting Against the Reduction

BRIDGEPORT, Conn Dec 11 The Star shirt factory employing about 400 hands has prepared a petition protesting against the proposed reduction of 35 per cent in the duty on shirts collars and cuffs It has been signed by thousands of citizens including many prominent Democrats

MADRID ALARMED

News of the Outrage in Paris Causes Sensation

MADRID, Dec 10 The news of the Anarchist outrage in the French Chamber of Deputies, caused a sensation in this city and led to a renewal of the alarm which followed the Barcelona outrage

The newspapers strongly denounce the outrage, and reiterate the necessity of international measures against the Anarchists

There will be no relaxation of the stringent police precautions in Spain

At a cabinet council, held this evening it was resolved to take immediate action looking to an international agreement to repress anarchy Orders were given that the military and police patrols in Barcelona be increased for the purpose of clearing out anarchists and revolution aries of all kinds

FOREIGN NEWS.

Great Britain Can't Hold the Mediterranean

LONDON Dec 11 Admiral Hornby, first aide-de-camp to the Queen in an interview published in the Graphic, today, says Great Britain could not hold the Mediterranean land in event of war the British are bound to be beaten unless their naval force is much stronger than the French force The Graphic gives the opinion of another Admiralty officer who says Great Britain must be as strong in ironclads and twice as strong in cruisers as any two other powers in the Mediterranean

The personnel of the navy of Great Britain must also be increased from 70,000 to 90 000 officers and men, and the Mediterranean fleet must be reinforced to make it equal to the combined French and Russian fleets It is estimated that the cost of building the required number of war vessels will be £137,000,000

A Fatal Riot—Troops Fire Into Mob

ROME, Dec 11 A fatal riot is reported from Giardinelli The rural population is bitterly opposed to the new communal tax on the sale of milk Riotous crowds vented their indignation against the communal council for imposing the tax They made an attack upon the building in which the council meetings were held and it was necessary for the troops to intervene to restore order Soldiers fired into the mob and killed four persons and wounded several others The rioters were then dispersed

Daniel Webster

One cannot be in all the good times I enjoyed Mr Higginson's lecture But I am glad I did once hear Daniel Webster It was on a day between March 12th and March 22d, 1839 that we in a snow storm arrived in Washington D C Our friend, Mellen Chamberlain, could hardly give himself time to greet us cordially before he began to lament that we had not come a few days earlier You do not know you never can know what you have lost by not being present when Mr Webster made his great speech on the 12th It was wonderful, overpowering, the listeners were so absorbed they would hardly have looked up if the roof of the Capitol had come off Such an opportunity can never come again We felt like those who have come too late for the feast but humbly took up our baskets and went about to gather the fragments But behold, Another day, March 21 our friend found us with a more encouraging word It is rumored that Mr Calhoun will speak tomorrow in opposition to Mr Webster, I no doubt so Chili and Bolivia lean to and support Ecuador War will probably be declared during the week

And so we went Four hours we listened to Mr Calhoun, while he poured out his accusation and condemnations of Mr Webster Mr Calhoun was I think, at that time in feeble health and he made the impression on me of a man who was exhausting his strength rather than bringing anybody down While his words fell fast he did not look down Mr Webster may have gone to his chamber to rest but I did not leave the gallery We sat there, motionless, we two young people, the long breath and said, very deliberately, "That man is a real boa constrictor He not only kills his adversary, but eats him all up" After all you have heard Daniel Webster F L C

THEY GO TO STAY.

New England Statesmen Have Washington Homes.

The Maine Men are Walkers

[Special Correspondence of the Boston Journal.]

WASHINGTON, Dec 9 New England keeps her public men in office longer than most other sections of the country do One result is that the representatives of New England in the two houses of Congress are generally men of national reputation and of commanding influence Another result is that New England Congressmen generally have more permanent abiding places at Washington than do the Congressmen from other States When they meet it is more natural to ask Where do you live? than Where do you stay? The national capital has ceased to be for them a mere camp

The members of the Maine delegation for the most part live in the same residences or hotels which they have occupied for years Senator Frye has his dwelling at the Hamilton House where are also located Representatives Dingley and Boutelle This fashionable hotel has long been a favorite resort for New England people It is located on the northeast corner of Fourteenth and K Streets and fronts upon the beautiful Franklin Square This park is one of the most attractive in the city of parks and contains an historical spring which for many years by pipes independent of the city water works, supplied the White House A few doors to the east of this hotel is the spacious and new marble mansion of Senator Sherman which he occupies this year for the first time It is an attractive place for this eminent statesman in his declining years and its appointments show that the wolf has been well kept from Mr Sherman's doors

Maine Men Walk

An amusing case passed under my eyes by the door of the home of these three Maine Congressmen but one firmly accuses these gentlemen riding in any carriage except in a street car or army wagon They are robust and vigorous and splendid types of manhood and they generally walk from their house to the Capitol which is a short mile and a half away We thought which is comparatively rigorous to Congressmen from the South appears like a balmy day in June to men accustomed to the rigor of a North ern winter But the Maine Congressmen have lived here so long that they might find it a little difficult to withstand the pinch and stress of the severe climate of the Maine coast in winter

Two blocks diagonally away toward the White House in the Shoreham on the northwest corner of Fifteenth street and H, ex Speaker Reed finds his home At that time it seemed somewhat more pretentious and expensive It is a building owned by ex Vice-President Morton, who has placed very considerable sums of money in Washington at a time when it seemed wise for him to make the improvement which was expensive rather than bringing anybody down While Mr Morton felt it to be a risk he did not look down Mr Webster may have gone to his chamber to rest but I did not leave the gallery We sat there, motionless, we two young people, the long breath and said, very deliberately, "That man is a real boa constrictor He not only kills his adversary, but eats him all up" After all you have heard Daniel Webster F L C

Trials of a Democratic Contemporary.

THE BANGOR WHIG quotes a paragraph published in the Commercial some nine years ago and attempts to show that this paper has changed front during that time. We long since abandoned all efforts to make THE WHIG understand anything and therefore will offer no explanation, but a simple reminder that our position is the same now as ever.—Commercial.

We are quite willing to confess that we are unable to understand the Commercial's tariff arguments. Just how a paper could declare eight years ago that the lumbermen could take care of themselves without any assistance from the government in the shape of protective duties, while to-day it insists that the removal of the duty would practically destroy the industry and at the same time avoid a change of front in its treatment of the lumber question is beyond our comprehension. We may add in strict confidence that in our humble opinion the Commercial does not quite understand its own situation, at least this is the inference one might draw from the not altogether lucid remarks of the paper on the subject. For some days past it has been very vigorously protesting against the free lumber schedule of the Wilson bill, but last evening it expressed its inability to see where the manufacturers receive the slightest protection now," a remark that leads one to wonder just what it is making all this fuss about. If the manufacturers do not receive the "slightest protection now" then the adoption of the Wilson bill ought necessarily to be a matter of indifference to the lumbermen, but on the other hand they declare that it will close all the mills on the river and Mr. Bass is a member of a committee appointed for the express purpose of averting if possible this serious calamity.

The difficulty which the Commercial encounters is to get rid of the Democratic free trade programme without openly repudiating the party responsible for such an insane policy. It has championed the very scheme it now denounces, when it felt sure that the Republicans would prevent its adoption, and it lacks the candor to honestly explain the reason for its change of front, because to do so would be to admit that its partisanship has led it heretofore to advocate a policy which it knows would be ruinous for the State of Maine, simply in order to keep in step with its party, while at the same time relying on the Republicans to prevent the consummation of the Democratic folly. This course is no longer possible, as the Democrats are in control of both branches of Congress, which fact accounts for the sudden awakening on the part of the Maine Democrats who voted for the very condition they now protest against. The idea advanced by the Commercial that the Maine lumbermen could take care of themselves provided everything else goes on the free list is too absurd for serious consideration. Every industry that is weakened or destroyed is a positive injury to the people and this fact accounts for the general protest that is now being made against the Wilson bill.

Maine Democrats and Chairman Wilson.

The attitude of the Democrats on the lumber question calls forth an amusing article from the Portland Press from which we quote as follows: Our assertion, therefore that these Democratic protectionists voted deliberately for the thing they are kicking against is in strict accordance with the truth. It would be exceedingly interesting to be behind the door when the committee calls upon Prof. Wilson, and its Democratic spokesman—for of course a Democrat will be selected for that business—presents the case. The conversation, we imagine, will run something in this style:

Democratic Spokesman—Prof. Wilson, we wish to call your attention to a grave injustice done the proprietors of the saw mills along the Penobscot by the lumber schedule of your tariff bill.

Prof. Wilson—In what does the injustice of the lumber schedule consist?

Democratic Spokesman—In putting lumber on the free list, thus exposing us to the ruinous competition of the poorly paid labor of Canada.

Prof. Wilson—You are a Democrat, I believe?

Democratic Spokesman, with pride—Yes, I have always voted the Democratic ticket and am proud to say that I believe in the principles of the party.

Prof. Wilson—Then you voted last fall that protection was robbery and in violation of the constitution?

Democratic Spokesman—I believe there was something like that in the platform.

Prof. Wilson—And you have from time to time denounced the "robber barons," whom protection enabled to rob the poor man?

Democratic Spokesman—Yes, but the "robber barons" we meant were the coal and iron barons of Pennsylvania—wicked Republican barons like Mr. Carnegie.

Prof. Wilson—But the tariff on lumber is a protective tariff like the tariff on iron and coal?

Democratic Spokesman—Yes, but there is a difference. The tariff on iron and coal protects some other fellows, while the tariff on lumber protects us.

Prof. Wilson—But you voted that all protection, whether upon coal or iron or lumber, was unconstitutional and that Congress had power only to lay a tariff for revenue?

Democratic Spokesman—Yes, but they said the platform was only a "glittering generality" that it was not to be taken seriously.

Prof. Wilson—But you denounced the McKinley bill as the embodiment of everything wicked in the shape of a tariff law?

Democratic Spokesman—Yes, with the exception of the lumber schedule. We didn't think that was so very bad.

Prof. Wilson—But you enforced the McKinley bill with frog lumber left in.

Democratic Spokesman—Of course. It was a Democratic measure and we knew the Republican Senate would kill it so there was no harm in our endorsing it. We always stand by principle when it doesn't cost anything.

Prof. Wilson—Then you don't really believe in the great principle of tariff reform?

Democratic Spokesman—Oh, yes; we are ardent believers in the principle, but we think that some discretion should be exercised in its application.

Prof. Wilson—Have you any general rule, according to which that discretion should be exercised?

Democratic Spokesman—Certainly. Everything we buy should be on the free list, while everything we sell should be protected from the ruinous competition of foreign labor. This rule will put lumber on the dutiable list.

Prof. Wilson—Are these all the arguments you have to offer for a change in the lumber schedule?

Democratic Spokesman—Aren't those enough? Isn't it enough to secure a change to show that Democrats want one? Isn't a Democratic administration bound to look out for Democrats?

Prof. Wilson—You forgot. This is a Cleveland administration. It is an administration of principle. It looks out for nobody—that is nobody except the Queen of Hawaii. It isn't righting wrongs this side of the Sandwich Islands. I will report what you say to Mr. Cleveland. I don't do anything for you neither can Congress. Anyone who [illegible]

Important Information.

Our Democratic friends who are becoming greatly exercised over the free lumber programme proposed by their party in Congress should send over to Lewiston for the editor of the Sun. He knows a thing or two about lumber, having been associated "with the men who have done a lumber business," and "in the woods he has shared the work and the hardships of the men who swing the axe and get the lumber to market," so that he knows all about "the practical part of the business." In view of this valuable and varied experience the opinion of the editor of the Sun is not to be sneezed at, and when he informs the country that free lumber will "be of direct benefit to the manufacturers of lumber and the laboring men who are employed in producing it" we feel impelled to call the attention of our Democratic brethren to this expert opinion of the profound Democratic editor who has swung the axe, etc., in order that they may learn before it is too late that they are opposing their own interests when they protest against the free lumber clause of the Wilson bill. They should go into the woods this winter and swing the axe and incidentally pick up the information that the one thing they desire is the removal of the duty. It is lying around somewhere near the waters of the Mattawamkeag, but if they fail to find it they can send for the editor of the Sun, and he will give them a few points on "the practical part of the business," which will be the next best thing.

ORNAMENT YOUR HOMES

And Make Them Cheerful.

A room with pictures and a room without pictures differ nearly as much as a room with windows and a room without windows, for pictures are loopholes of escape to the soul, leading it to other scenes and spheres. Where the fancy for a moment may revel, refreshed and delighted. Pictures are consolers of loneliness and a relief to the jaded mind, and windows to the imprisoned thought, they are books, histories and sermons—which we can read without the trouble of turning over the leaves.—John Gilbert.

We have the largest and best collection of pictures and mouldings east of Boston and can suit the most fastidious as regards quality and price. We respectfully solicit an inspection.

Hancock ss. Supreme Judicial Court, in equity.
Frank W. Prescott et al. vs. Bucksport Electrical Company.
PETITIONER'S PETITION.

To the Honorable Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court within and for said State and County:

Respectfully represents your petitioner that he is by virtue of the order of this Honorable Court, the receiver of said Bucksport Electrical Company, and in pursuance to an order of said Court dated September 25, A. D. 1893, he was empowered to sell the property and assets of said Company at public auction after due notice.

That said notice was given as directed by said Court and a day, hour and place designated for said public sale, to wit: Saturday, November 11th, 1893, at ten o'clock in the forenoon on the premises, and no bid then being received said sale was again adjourned to Tuesday, November 21st, 1893, at two o'clock in the afternoon, and no bid then being received said sale was again adjourned to Tuesday, December 5th, 1893, at the same hour and place, at which time said property and assets of said Company was again put up for sale and no bid was received.

And now after consultation with creditors, the trustee for the bondholders and parties in interest and believing that it would be for the welfare of all concerned and that the said property and assets can be so disposed of to the best advantage, your petitioner respectfully requests that he be forthwith authorized to sell said plant, property and assets at private sale or public auction as a whole or in parts as to his may seem for the best interests of all concerned.

And your petitioner will ever pray.
Bucksport, December 8th, 1893.
O. F. CUNNINGHAM, Receiver.

BUCKSPORT, December 8th, 1893.

Having read the foregoing petition the undersigned waving notice joins in said petition and for the purpose of stopping further expense respectfully requests that an order in accordance therewith be forthwith granted by said Court.

LOUIS C. SOUTHARD, Trustee.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT,
ELLSWORTH, December 7th, 1893.

Ordered, That notice be given all persons interested in the above petition, to appear before me at Ellsworth, Hancock County, at the Court House on Tuesday, the 26th day of December next, at ten o'clock A. M., to show cause if any they have against said petition, and that said notice be given by publishing an attested copy of said petition and this order thereon three weeks successively in the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier, a newspaper published in said County, the last publication to be one day at least prior to said time of hearing.

A true copy of petition and order thereon.
Attest: JOHN F. SNOWMAN, Clerk.

Ye Old Fashioned Winter

Seems to be doing a rushing business at the old stand, and to successfully withstand its roystering rigor, you need one of our genuine "sold sod" IRISH FRIEZE or ELYSIAN BEAVER ULSTERS, gentlemen, they're warm enough, even, to start on an Arctic exploration with.

Another specialty of ours are Double Kneed and Seated Suits for Boys, as stout built nipcat as a Harvard leather foot ball suit.

Speaking of Suits, we've some great snap bargains for men. For instance, $18.00 Suits for $12.00, $15.00 Suits for $10.00. Furnishing Goods also at equally low prices.

In fact our whole stock is going at prices that evoke a regular "calamity howl" from the owners of earlier purchased stocks who cannot reach our figures except at a loss.

The White Store, under the Public Library, after a somewhat delayed but successful opening, is fully equipped for business and is getting it, too. Thanks.

Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec 11 Mr Hoar introduced a resolution asking by what authority Commissioner Blount had been appointed and proceeded to comment upon the fact that information which had been given to the Senate under the seal of confidence had been supplied by the State Department to representatives of four newspapers that were known to be zealous supporters of the Administration The appointment of a commissioner with paramount authority as a representative of the United States in those islands Mr Hoar regarded as being as gross a violation of the constitution of the United States as was ever charged upon or imputed to any public official

Mr Hoar in the course of his speech said he wanted the matter to be separated from all questions of annexation or a protectorate and that, if it were true that the President of the United States (the Senate being in session) had authorized an officer to exercise paramount diplomatic authority and to withdraw, at his discretion, or to land the forces of the United States he was standing on very slippery ground and had better step on to terra firma rapidly and at once

If such an official had entered upon that duty and established a correspondence with private persons about public affairs of the government to which he was commissioned and if his conduct was approved by the President and the President made himself an accomplice after the fact (the President) was standing on ice not only very slippery but very thin (Laughter)

Mr Gray replied briefly to what he called Mr Hoar's scolding and the resolution went over till to-morrow

The House joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of War to permit the use of the monument lot and other reservations in Washington City by the Knights of Pythias at the encampment in August 1894 was passed

The bill to repeal the federal election laws was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections The House bill covering the same grounds was allowed to remain on the calendar The Senate proceeded to executive business and at 5 20 adjourned

House

The bill establishing a light and fog station at the entrance to New Bedford Mass, Harbor was passed

Mr Mallory of Florida, called up the bill requiring all steam vessels of more than one thousand tons under steam for ten hours a day to carry two licensed engineers After some inquiries by Mr Dingley had been satisfactorily answered the bill was passed

Mr Pickrell of Kansas, reported a bill providing for the extension of North Capitol street The House went into committee of the whole for its consideration The bill gave rise to considerable discussion Mr DeArmond, of Missouri offered an amendment ordering that the District be required to tear all the expensive sections of the extension In committee of the whole the amendment was agreed to and when the committee rose the bill as amended was passed After action on several other bills the House adjourned

A TERRIBLE GALE

Several Vessels' Crews Have Rough Experience

PROVINCETOWN Mass, Dec 11 A heavy north west gale prevailed here last night

There arrived to-day the tug Kate Jones with the schooner Sallie L Fish in tow Capt Nelson reported that when off Baker's Island at midnight they took a heavy squall from the northwest which broke the steering gear and she lost her sails For four hours the sea made a clean break over the vessel, which was unmanageable They lost provisions clothes the vessel's papers and everything in the cabin The vessel was leaking badly They rigged a steering gear with the windlass block and managed to get the vessel before the wind

They set their colors union down to a passing steamer, but she took no notice They freed the vessel of water off Wood End, when they were picked up by the tug

The schooner William F Burrough, Robinson has also arrived The captain reports that he was from Port Liberty for Boston, and when off Minot's light last night the wind blew away the foresail mainsail and jibs They got the vessel before the wind and tried to make Provincetown but fell to leeward They were picked up by the tug Peter L Bradley and towed in

The Rough Experiences of the Crew of a Portland Ship.

Vessel Damaged by Collision with Huge Iceberg.

NEW YORK, Dec 11 When the ship San Joaquin, of Portland, Me which left Yokohama May 4th, arrived in port this noon, she bore evidence of having been badly battered Her foremast was gone ten feet from the deck, also the mainstopmast, mizzen topgallantmast and bowsprit with all attached The bows were patched with canvas

Capt Larrabee reported that at 9 1 M Sept 8 in lat 10 30 long 49 20 W the ship collided with a huge iceberg The ship was sailing at fair speed and struck the berg head on The night was dark and not a thing could be discerned No floating ice was encountered previous to the collision, and none was observed afterwards

Careful observation showed that the berg was over nine and a half miles long and a thousand feet high

All hands went immediately to work to clear away the wreckage, after which the vessel proceeded under jury rig to the Barbadoes Capt Larrabee navigated the vessel around Cape Horn and over 8 000 miles under jury rig and came into this port in the crippled condition described with all hands well

The crew consists of 16 men and on board was also the captain's sister, who resides in Boston After the collision the helmsman deserted his post in fear, and Miss Larrabee manned the wheel for a time

CHICAGO HIGHWAYMEN

Thieves Take $1 000 Worth of Jewelry from Cable Car Passengers

A Chicago despatch says Highwaymen are getting bold again Stories of stores and houses being looted come to police headquarters every day lately this morning three men boarded a crowded car attached to a Madison street cable train and robbed the passengers of diamonds, watches and other jewelry that could be secured without making their object apparent They entered the car at a street corner and started to push their way to the front

The aisle was full of standing passengers which made their bold work successful As they jostled the people aside they took all the jewelry in sight, but so distracted the general attention in the car that their actions were not noticed

When they reached the front of the car they opened the door and jumped off the car had gone another block before an alarm was given One of the passengers adjusted he had been robbed of a diamond pin valued at $35, and said he believed the men who passed through the car were the thieves

His outcry was followed by others of a similar nature, and in a few minutes a total loss had been discovered of various articles of jewelry representing hundreds of dollars. Some of the men jumped off the car to give chase, but the robbers held them at bay and threatened to shoot the first man who attempted to follow them. They then disappeared

The matter was reported to the Desplaines street police station, and the officers there from a description recognized the thieves as [illegible] records. John Wilkinson and John [illegible] were arrested to-day and [illegible]

There is an unexpended balance of over $2 000 in the appropriation of 1893 for the support of State paupers This does not arise from any falling off in this unfortunate class, but because the towns are behind hand in sending their bills forward to the Council They had better present their bills before December 20 as if they do so until 1894 and the bills are forwarded in a lump there may be a deficiency in next years appropriation which would go to the Legislature and delay payment

The library law of last winter included a provision for the benefit of free libraries Towns appropriating money for the purchase of books for such libraries are given by the State 10 per cent of the sum appropriated But two towns have availed themselves of the privilege Norway and Vinalhaven and the whole amount given by the State to these towns is but $75 This makes but a small hole in the appropriation, which was $2 000 for the year The balance will be carried over to next year, and it is hoped that the towns which have free libraries will at their annual meetings appropriate book money

A TOUGH EXPERIENCE

Shipwrecked Sailors Go Through the City Monday

Five sailors who have recently had a severe experience on the sea passed through the city yesterday from Bar Harbor on their way to St John N B They belonged board the schooner Lucerne of St John commanded by Capt C D Dykes an which was wrecked on the night of December 1st on the Maine coast as reported in the WHIG yesterday

The night of the wreck was a terrible one with a heavy snow storm At about 7 30 breakers were discovered ahead and the vessel soon struck hard upon a ledge on Bakers Island The vessel had a cargo of coal and immediately sprang a leak filling rapidly The mate started to lower a boat and expected to land on the island but it was taken care of

As the stern of the vessel was heavily struck it filling it with water and carrying away three of the four cars The boat was lowered and the deck of the vessel they had to take to the rigging The crew immediately sent several feet under water as they left They saved nothing from the wreck

With the one oar they could not reach the island and in the night they were driven way from land The weather was very cold and it was only by taking turns at the oar that they kept from freezing Some of them were badly frost bitten and one child In the morning they were overjoyed to discover Mt Desert rock just ahead and they redoubled their efforts to reach land

After being driven back many times by the heavy sea they finally got a here and were taken care of by the light keeper's family After being obliged to stay there for a week until last Saturday, they hitched a ride to their home and sailed to South west Harbor A Crowberry Island they found that the life saving crew had been at the vessel and had secured much of the property

The vessel which was owned by Peter McIntire of St John, is a total loss Some of the coal had also been taken from the wreck The sailors took the steamer Sedgwick from South West Harbor to Bar Harbor Saturday night and staying there over Sunday came to Bangor yesterday morning They left on the last evening train for St John

BRAZILIANS INDIFFERENT

People Take Little Interest in the Outcome of Hostilities.

A New York despatch says Bishop George W Peterkin, of the Protestant Episcopal church, who has just returned from a mission to Brazil, lectured on the subject at the Church of the Incarnation on Madison avenue Sunday afternoon Concerning the civil war in Brazil he said

"What seemed strange to me at first was the almost total indifference of the people to the result of it all Men and women go about Rio Janeiro, Rio Grande and adjacent cities attending to the regular business of life as if nothing of an unusual nature were transpiring

"The war is discussed, but in a desultory sort of way, and as if a victory on either side would be satisfactory In the minds of some of the people the trouble creates no impression whatever The citizens are all of the impression that the broil will be settled soon and affairs straightened out. Brazil was very prosperous for an empire, and I have reason to believe she would have fared better by remaining so peacefully."

CRIMINAL CLUB.

Eloquent Lecture by President H L Whitman of Colby

The second lecture of the Central Club course took place last evening the lecturer being President Whitman of Colby University, who spoke in his usual eloquent and fascinating manner, upon the topic advertised "An Educational Opportunity" After an introduction by Mr E M Blanding, the speaker went on to say that there have been some questions that will not admit of a permanent answer and of these the educational problem is one of the most important Tastes change whether wisely or not, and the type of art, music or literature that charms one generation may have lost all interest for the succeeding one Three times in a century the world has a chance to start afresh but the new generation may not have as keen an appreciation of its privileges as that before it, while the conditions of life being constantly changing, the physical, mental and moral characteristics of men change accordingly, and a special order of education is required by each

Men cannot be dealt with in the mass but as individuals Knowledge is not something to be imparted in bulk but must be broken up to be distributed Into too the kingdom of education is like the kingdom of Heaven he must become as a little child who would enter the city There is without question greater opportunities in life for the thoroughly educated man than for his illiterate neighbor, whatever his station in the world may be Actual statistics prove that one out of every forty educated persons attains eminence while only one out of every thousand uneducated ones makes his mark in the world

Whatever a man's calling in life he is wiser, better more successful worker for the training of mind and character that a liberal education gives to him He has some idea of the fitness of things and his guide or his work up will show to far better advantage on that account Not that education in accomplishments is for no teacher but that that man that God thinks fit has denied him and no man is well educated being that has not gumption

Be resolutely in the good the full and the beautiful, in life The word that is spoken will depend upon the mind that receives it A thoughtful life is a fruitful life a fruitful life will be rich or poor as ourselves make rich or poor in mind and character

The next entertainment will be a concert by the Cecilian Quartette of Portland will take place and will be in two weeks from this date
